

SAM: Sincere Advice Magic

Dear Readers,

We are introducing an advice column to the Nichols News. We invite you to submit questions and concerns about which you are unable to consult your family and friends. You will remain anonymous at all times. The people answering your questions are not trying to figure out to whom the question refers and are not looking to get anyone in trouble. The responses are from fellow students and for your own personal benefit.

We ask that if you have any questions about Nichols, teachers, sports, relationships, family, health, or anything else in general about Nichols School, please email Nichols News (“NicholsNews” in the address line and “advice” in the subject line) or leave an anonymous note in Dr. Ousley’s mailbox. We will put your questions and/or concerns in the next edition of Nichols News. We won’t be able to print anything obviously inappropriate, however. With this column, we hope to bring a sense of unity and security to the Nichols campus, where you can ask almost anything without fear of judgment.

The students aren’t the only ones who can submit! We will accept questions from teachers, deans and any other members of the Nichols community who wish to ask questions or state concerns. This column is open to everyone, and we hope we bring the community closer and help every single member of the Nichols community with any sort of issue that might be raised.
